

Meet the Governors

Linsley de la Hunt – I have been Chair of Governors since 2016 and a governor at Christ Church Primary for many years. I am a retired NHS hospital consultant and enjoy working as a volunteer in school every Monday.

Allan Marks – I am the parish priest of Christ Church and have been Vice Chair of Governors since 2009. I am originally from Yorkshire but really love Newcastle, especially Christ Church Primary School.

Brenda Garbutt – I have been involved with education for 37 years. I work at Christ Church in school administration one day a week and have been an associate governor for several years.

Jon Rippon - I have been Churchwarden at Christ Church since 2020. For the past 30 years I have worked as a town planner in Newcastle. As a result I have a good understand of issues affecting the area.

Jane McFadyen – I have been a governor at Christ Church Primary since 2016 and was head teacher at another school for several years before retiring.

Keith Reader – I worked in primary schools for 25 years, followed by eight years working for Safeguarding Children Services. Christ Church Primary School will always be special to me as I was head teacher here from 1998 until 2003.

Katy Stoman – I am a parent governor, having a son and a daughter who attend the school. Before taking a career break to have my children, I was a secondary school geography teacher so I am very much used to life in schools.

Christopher Wardale – I am a retired vicar, professional glass designer and have a long experience of being a school governor. I have been governor at Christ Church Primary since 2019.

Timothy Wigglesworth – I moved to Newcastle in 2007 with my work as a barrister. I am a churchwarden at St. Nicholas Cathedral and was asked to be a governor at Christ Church Primary in January 2019, which I was delighted to accept.
